THE EXTENDED FAMILY

Warren Wilson Presbyterian Church

A Note from Laurie

We began celebrating the 100th Anniversary of the church the first week of October and continue our celebration through Sunday, November 23rd. However, as our Stewardship Team has reminded us, we are celebrating 100 years of Service and “The Future is Calling!” Our God is always a God moving us forward into new life. That is true for us as individuals and that is true for the Church, as well. God is always doing a new thing and we might not be able to envision God’s plans for the next 100 years of Warren Wilson Presbyterian Church, we have confidence that God will be present with us, leading, teaching, caring, as this congregation shares the love of Christ with each other, the Swannanoa Valley community, and the world. Thanks be to God!

This newsletter is chock full of activities, information about the life of the church, worship notes, and bits and pieces from faithful members of the church. It is our November and December edition and, as such, it contains both information about the ongoing 100th anniversary, but also Advent and Christmas. You will find important information about Stewardship and End of the Year giving, both of which the church depends on to be the church! You will find interesting information about new programs (a Tai Chi class!) and recurring events (Empty Bowls dinner).

When Katy Schafer was with us, she referred a number of times to Psalm 139:14 which in the nrsv states, “I am fearfully and wonderfully made”. That has been on my mind since she was here and I’ve been considering it not only for individuals, but for the church, this church in particular, as well. Read it now from Psalms Now by Leslie F. Brandt:

O God, You know me inside and out,
through and through.
Everything I do,
every thought that flits through my mind,
every step I take,
every plan I make,
every word I speak,
You know, even before these things happen.
You know my past;
You know my future.
Your enveloping presence covers my every move.
Your knowledge of me sometimes comforts me,
sometimes frightens me,
but it is always far beyond my comprehension.

There is no way to escape You, no place to hide.
If I ascend to the heights of joy,
You are there before me.
If I plunge into the depths of despair,
You are there to meet me.
I could fly to the other side of the world
and find You there to lead the way.
I could walk into the darkest night,
only to find You there
to lighten its dismal hours.

You were present at my conception.
You guided the molding of my unformed members
within the body of my mother.
Nothing about me, from beginning to end,
has been hidden from Your eyes.
How frightfully, fantastically wonderful it all is!

May Your all-knowing, everywhere-present Spirit continue to search out my feelings and thoughts.
Deliver me
from that which may hurt or destroy me,
and guide me along the paths of love and truth

Katy Schafer preached in worship on October 26 with help from her friend, Rev Mary Kay Scott. Mary Kay's son Alex, who is a WWC student, offered the Time for Children and also created this piece of art for the cover of that week's bulletin.

All you frightfully, fantastically wonderful people at this frightfully, fantastically wonderful Warren Wilson Presbyterian Church, blessings! - Laurie

MINUTE FOR MINISTRY

by Sharon Lytle (as presented in worship October 19th)

Good Morning.

Last week, Pat Hardy began our stewardship season with a beautiful and heartwarming message. Today, I hope to build on that foundation by exploring another vital dimension of stewardship: A MINISTRY OF GRATITUDE.

Oftentimes, when we hear the word stewardship, I'm sure most of us probably think of budgets, pledges, or the numbers on our financial reports. But stewardship is really about something much deeper... It's about gratitude—it's about being part of what God is doing through us.

In 1 Peter, chapter 4, verse 10: "Christians are encouraged to be good stewards of the gifts they have received: using them to serve others with sincerity and love."

Each of us has been blessed with gifts. Some of these gifts are easy to see... and some are quiet, behind the scenes... but all are equally important. Stewardship invites us to use those gifts in ways that bless others.

When you give — whether it's your time, your prayers, your wisdom, your talents, or your financial support — you help continue the ministry that has shaped lives at Warren Wilson Presbyterian Church and the greater community. Stewardship isn't about equal giving — it's about equal commitment. Each of us offering what we can, with a grateful heart.

So, with that being said, I invite you to pray...pray about how you can take part in this ministry of gratitude because together.... as faithful stewards of God's grace.... we will keep Warren Wilson Presbyterian church's light shining... The Future Is Calling!
Thanks Be To GOD!

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY NEWS

THERE IS LOTS TO REPORT!

HOUSE OF FAITH #5 WILL BE A BIG HOUSE FOR A BIG FAMILY

One year after Hurricane Helene's floods devastated Asheville Area Habitat for Humanity's offices and ReStore in Biltmore Village, repairs are complete and an organizational meeting for the next House of Faith, to be built with financial support and volunteer labor from congregations like ours, was held in late September.

Construction of Houses of Faith # 3 and # 4 was in Arden at Glenn Bridge, and the next House of Faith, # 5, will be built in West Asheville's New Heights neighborhood where more than 30 families have already become Habitat homeowners in recent years. Construction of House of Faith # 5, a one-story, four-bedroom, single family house, has just started and is expected to be complete in early June, 2026.

Since Hurricane Helene, Habitat affiliates from other states have sent many volunteers here to help with new house construction. College and university students have also come to help, and more will volunteer starting in late February. As a result of that, the work period for faith partner volunteers will start on Jan. 13 and run for seven weeks, and will involve indoor work with heaters such as painting, and, weather permitting, outdoor work.

During two volunteer periods for faith partner volunteers while House of Faith # 4 was built, 11 members of our congregation worked a total of 128 hours to help bring that and other homes being built in Habitat's Glenn Bridge neighborhood to completion.

During the upcoming volunteer period, our church has spaces reserved for volunteers on three Fridays (half shift), and three Saturdays (full shift), and there will also be open volunteer spaces on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. No prior experience or special skills are needed to help Habitat as a volunteer. All that is needed is a willingness to help with its mission of providing families with well-built affordable homes in safe neighborhoods.

The Bochkai family immigrated from Ukraine and Serhii works to provide for the family while Olha cares for their seven children from age 19 to less than one year. They will be the future owners of Habitat House of Faith #5 in Asheville.

HABITAT VOLUNTEERING by Don Collins

I have always looked forward to helping build houses as a volunteer at Habitat for Humanity sites in our area, and recently participated in a new program, indoor component building, at a facility run by the Hendersonville area Habitat for Humanity. Working with a skilled supervisor, four volunteers pre-assembled walls (the framing of walls made from 2x4's and particle-board sheathing) in October for delivery to the New Heights Habitat site where House of Faith #5 will soon be built.

I was warmly greeted by the supervisor and the other volunteers, and found that the process was remarkably efficient. We worked on a large table where the studs and plates (the uprights and horizontal 2x4's that make up the wall framing) were laid out to be nailed together. The 2x4's were pre-cut and labeled, and we used power nailers for rapid assembly of each wall. This included attaching particle board sheathing on the surfaces and we achieved the goal of assembling five walls per work day. These walls that Habitat volunteers assembled with excellent detail have proven to be a better match to the needs of the construction, so there will probably be other pre-assembly projects in the future.

In October, a small group of Habitat volunteers including Don Collins assembled high quality walls indoors at a facility in Hendersonville for soon to be built houses at New Heights in west Asheville.

I encourage other church members and friends to join the volunteers to work on Habitat for Humanity projects. The experience and camaraderie with the crew leader and other volunteers is wonderful.

Finished walls assembled in Hendersonville ready to be delivered to the Asheville Area Habitat Humanity site where House of Faith #5 will soon be built.

Dinner will be served in hand-crafted ceramic bowls created by Warren Wilson students and faculty and YES, you get to take your bowl home!

This year, all proceeds from ticket sales will benefit Asheville Poverty Initiative's 12 Baskets Cafe. Tickets are available for online purchase now at:

IN OUR COMMUNITY

Western North Carolina AIDS Project, the National AIDS Memorial, Campaign for Southern Equality, and Revolve Gallery are partnering together to bring 7 panels of the AIDS Memorial Quilt to Asheville as part of the Community Display Program. The Quilt panels will be on display from 9 AM to 6 PM at Revolve Gallery on Riverside Drive from December 1st through December 13th. The display is free to the public, with any donations received supporting the mission and work of WNC AIDS Project.

“We are honored to work together with the National AIDS Memorial and local partners to bring the Quilt to our community and share its stories of activism, healing, and remembrance,” says Antonio Del Toro, WNCAP CEO. “The Quilt connects the history of AIDS and the tremendous loss of life to WNCAP’s ongoing work to link people to prevention and care services, offering hope for the future.”

Throughout the ongoing AIDS crisis, more than 700,000 lives have been lost in this country to HIV/AIDS. Today, the HIV epidemic has shifted, disproportionately impacting Black and Hispanic/Latino communities, and the Southern United States. Quilt displays offer opportunities to raise awareness about the advances in HIV treatment and prevention medications, including PrEP—medications that could bring us to the end of the HIV epidemic.

“The issues our nation faces today- social injustice, health inequity, stigma, bigotry, and fear - are the same issues faced throughout four decades of the AIDS pandemic,” says John Cunningham, CEO of the National AIDS Memorial. “The Quilt is a powerful teaching tool that shares the story of HIV/AIDS, the lives lost, and the hope, healing, activism and remembrance that it inspires.”

The Quilt was created in the ‘80s during the darkest days of the AIDS pandemic by gay rights activist Cleve Jones. While planning a march in 1985, he was devastated by the thousands of lives that had been lost to AIDS in San Francisco and asked each of his fellow marchers to write on placards the names of friends and loved ones who had died. Jones and others stood on ladders taping these placards to the walls of the San Francisco Federal Building. The wall of names looked like a patchwork quilt, and inspired by this sight, Jones and friends made plans for a larger memorial. Today, the Quilt has grown to more than 50,000 panels, with more than 110,000 names stitched within its fabric. It weighs 54 tons, stretches more than 50 miles in length, and is the largest community-arts project in the world. The Quilt is now part of the National AIDS Memorial, which oversees its preservation, care, storytelling programs, and community displays. The Quilt can be viewed in its entirety and people can search for names on the Quilt at www.aidsmemorial.org/quilt.
