THE EXTENDED FAMILY

Warren Wilson Presbyterian Church

Musings on Ministry

by Pastor Jess Rigel

Greetings friends!

During this season of bounty and harvest, this season where we celebrate thanks for all we have been blessed to receive and to share, I always struggle with history. I am a Daughter of the American Revolution, related on my mother's side to John Ross, husband of Betsy Ross, creator of the first American flag. And while I celebrate my family's heritage, I also recognize that this heritage, like America itself, can be complicated to claim pride in. After all, America is a nation guilty of genocide in the name of manifest destiny, a nation that so entrenched racial caste that it inspired Hitler's Nuremberg Laws, and the only nation in the world that has used atomic weapons—not just once, but twice!—on civilian populations. And yet, we are also the first country to have nationally protected parks, to empower women to vote in national elections, and to create and promote public education and public libraries. America is worthy of celebration, but our celebration of her must be honest.

Thanksgiving is a holiday that similarly demands such honesty. It's incredible that our country sets aside an entire day to practice gratitude for the land, for the fruits of the land, for food and fellowship and family. And yet, the hypocrisy of colonizers fleeing persecution in England, then turning around and exacting the same persecution on the indigenous peoples already here must not be lost in our Thanksgiving traditions. Acknowledgement is due; reparations are due, too.

What that means or looks like, I'm not sure, but what I am sure is that replaying the old Pilgrim and Indian myth doesn't serve anyone. What leads to true gratitude is honesty; honesty about where we've come from and where we're going. So this Thanksgiving, I'm praying a different kind of prayer—a prayer that recognizes that enough is abundance and one that acknowledges that the sins of my ancestors needn't be repeated in order for me to live abundantly.

There’s a Hebrew song I learned in college called “Dayenu”. It’s traditionally sung at Passover, and roughly translates to: “it would have been enough.” The verses are split into three, 5-stanza sections, each celebrating a blessing from God. The first 5 are about God rescuing the Hebrew people from slavery (it would have been enough); the next are about the miracles of their escape from Egypt (it would have been enough); the final three are about the blessing of being with God (it would have been enough). What’s clear here is not only God’s abiding presence, but the reality that suffering doesn’t have to have the last word. Our God is a God of reconciliation, and we are to be people that bring about that reconciliation to all of God’s good creation. While you’re chewing on your turkey and potatoes this season, I challenge you to join me in also chewing on what it might look like for us to start that work of reconciliation with our Native American neighbors, both as a church and as a country. Because honest thanksgiving, true thanksgiving, always leads to generosity, which I think we can all agree is deeply needed in our nation this season more than ever.

Thanks be to God for challenges, and thanks be to God for grace!

With love and light,

Pastor Jess :)

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY NEWS

by Larry Griswold

EIGHT WWPC VOLUNTEERS HELPED HABITAT FOR HUMANITY FINISH PHASE 1 OF HOUSE OF FAITH #6 CONSTRUCTION

Before the walls go up for House of Faith #6 the frames for them had to be built, and Habitat volunteers just finished assembling 96 of them during 15 days in October. Exterior, interior, ground floor and second floor walls, were all built for a two-bedroom, two story duplex unit on a very large table top at Habitat's warehouse near Biltmore Village. The work was supervised by Habitat's Off-site Construction Supervisor, Matt Grant, an expert teacher of basic carpentry tasks for volunteers who never have done this before. Doing the job this way ensures that the wall frames are well-built, and volunteers for the final two days of the project included three from our church who built interior wall frames on Oct. 23, and five who built exterior wall frames on Oct. 24.

Work on House of Faith #6, in West Asheville's New Heights neighborhood, will continue in November at the site, and we have half-day (8:15 - noon) volunteer spaces available on Friday, Nov. 13. Talk to Larry Griswold if you would like to help.

Anne and Jamie Dale and Brent Roberts helped build interior wall frames for Habitat House Faith #6 on Oct. 23. Construction Supervisor Matt Grant, on the left, helped all volunteers do this important project well and safely, Larry Griswold, Eloise Hill, Don Collins, Alex Collins and Derron Daugherty built exterior wall frames for Habitat House of Faith #6 on Oct. 24. Don helped with this project on three different days in October.

Warren Wilson College Students Alex Collins and Eloise Hill, shown here using nail guns to attach sheathing to exterior wall frames, volunteered with us on Oct. 24. Each one of these frames required about 200 nails.

When each exterior wall frame was finished, it was rolled outside on the mobile table in the lower left corner of this photo, and loaded on a trailer truck for transportation to the house building site. Habitat Construction Supervisor Matt Grant used a forklift to load the completed frames, and was assisted by Don Collins with this one.

Warren Wilson College Happenings

The Community Engagement Office at Warren Wilson College would like to cordially invite you to attend The 28th Annual Empty Bowls Dinner. Let's take this opportunity to gather with community members, share a meal together, and continue the conversation about creating equitable food and housing systems that work for all. Dinner will be served in hand-crafted ceramic bowls created by Warren Wilson students and faculty, and YES, you get to take your bowl home! All proceeds from this event will support World of Abundance, which seeks to inspire under-resourced people to see the abundance in the world around them by providing access, education, and skills to live purpose-filled lives through their community gardens.

COMMUNITY AND MISSION OPPORTUNITIES

FOOD DRIVE

JUST ONE CAN

Help feed your neighbors!

Add "just one can" to your groceries and drop it in the blue container in the narthex!

A new food drive has begun, and we are asking that every time you go to the store...add "Just One Can" to donate to your neighbors in need. Bring it to the church on Sunday, or during the week following your shopping trip. Place it in the blue container in the entryway of the church.

SVCM's Johnny Raines Christmas Cheer Help Make Christmas Brighter for Your Neighbor

For families facing financial hardship, Christmas can bring an added burden. Johnny Raines Christmas Cheer gives community members the opportunity to step in and make sure the children of the Swannanoa Valley have the joy of receiving a gift on Christmas morning.

For more than 20 years, Swannanoa Valley Christian Ministry has connected sponsors with families in our community through the Christmas Cheer program. Sponsors receive a child's wish list and have the joy of choosing gifts that will bring a little extra Christmas cheer.

and don't forget Deck The Trees

Deck the Trees will be December 3, 2026 through January 1, 2027! Now in its 16th year, Deck the Trees is an annual Christmas fundraiser for the SVCM Fuel Fund, helping neighbors in need to keep their homes warm during winter. Since 2011, Deck the Trees has raised over $545,000 to help low-income Swannanoa Valley residents afford the cost of heating their homes. In 2025, SVCM's Crisis Ministry provided over $182,000 in energy assistance to 449 valley households — a 90% increase since 2022. Since last winter, the local cost of heating oil has increased by about 64%. Amid rising needs for energy assistance, SVCM is calling on all Friends of the Trees to give generously to Deck the Trees this season!

Please check back in November for our 2026 Tree Trail and Tree Locations brochure.

VETERAN'S RESTORATION QUARTERS (VRQ)

by Larry Griswold

AN EASY WAY TO JOIN OUR COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT EFFORT THAT TAKES VERY LITTLE TIME

Can you slice a tomato? Or grill a hot dog? Or put them on a plate and hand it to a veteran who has fallen on hard times but is now in a successful program to help him regain his independence?

As you may know, a few members of our church have prepared and served lunch at the Veterans Restoration Quarters on Tunnel Rd. in East Asheville, not far from our church, once a month for about 16 years. For example, on June 26, barely two months after becoming our Pastor, Rev. Jess helped and during worship two mornings later, she told our congregation "This past Friday I was really blessed ... to reach out, to have my heart enlarged by serving at the VRQ it was really meaningful to get to serve the men who have served our country and to sit down at a table and eat with them and share a meal that we had prepared."

Each time we do this takes two hours or less, and it's an opportunity for new people to get involved whether it's once a month, once a quarter, or twice a year. Two people report at 10:30 or 11, depending on that day's menu, for food preparation. One more reports at 11:45 to help them serve the meal. When that is done at 12:30 our people are welcome to have lunch there too, or take a lunch home with them.

The next three dates volunteers are needed for this are Jan. 22, Feb. 26 and March 26. This is an easy way for you to get involved with our Church's community engagement activity that will take very little of your time. Ask Rev. Jess or Larry Griswold about it if you have questions, and would like to help.

HOT DOGS AND CHILI were prepared and served by three members of our congregation at the Veterans Restoration Quarters on Oct. 23, and any member of our congregation is invited to join this long-time community engagement project in January.

Not Quite Goodbye: A Love Letter to WWPC

by Munashe Matumbi

If y'all still remember, back in the Fall 2025 edition, I shared a little bit about the road that led me to Warren Wilson. I mentioned that halfway through my college journey, I had found myself with numerous grandparents, and that I had WWPC to thank for that. I also promised that there would come a day when I would show my gratitude through pen and paper (my laptop keyboard, since I am typing). Believe it or not, that day has come, and a little earlier than may be expected.

I am set to graduate in May 2027 with a B.S. in Environmental Science, after which I plan to move to Georgia. I know graduation is still miles away, but knowing myself, I knew that writing this closer to the time would be difficult. Thus, why y'all get it early. Think of it as an early Christmas gift from me to you!

Looking back, I would say that I have been fortunate enough to see several chapters in the life of this church, from Pastor Steve to Pastor Margaret, Rev. Laurie, who baptized me on July 13, 2025 (a day I hold dear to my heart), and most recently Rev. Jess, who brings with her a great sense of whimsy to the church. Throughout these changes, one thing has remained constant: the love and care that this congregation has shown me.

As I write this, I am sitting outside Witherspoon, having just had a conversation with Dr. Mallory McDuff about some of my memories with the congregation. I think of Mr. Rodney Lytle, the jokes we have shared during Sunday services, the baked goods he would bring over the breaks, and how he always checked in to make sure I had everything I needed.

I also think of Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Stockdale, whose yards became more than places where I helped with gardening. What started as simple yardwork grew into friendships, opportunities to learn more about plants, and invitations to family activities.

Service, Service, Service!

It was one of the four values at my Quaker high school, and as y'all know, it is also a core value here at Warren Wilson. I have heard this word countless times, but did hearing it really teach me what it meant? And does me being cognisant mid-sentence of the fact that I have used y'all two times now tell of how the South has rubbed off on me? Perhaps - but I can not seem to remember when that transition occurred.

I remember a rainy Saturday afternoon when Mr. Dale helped me learn how to drive in Asheville. Having received my provisional learner's license in Zimbabwe, where we drive on the opposite side of the road, I had quite a bit of adjusting to do. A few months later, he would be surprised to learn that I had driven seventeen hours to Vermont! Looking back at these moments, I believe that I have come to understand service through the simple things people have done for me.

Growing up, I learned quickly that family extends beyond those related to us by blood. Our elders help raise and guide the younger generations, and I have experienced that same spirit during my time here. My name, Munashe, which is plastered on my email signature, means "God is with us" in Shona, and I would say that this congregation has helped me understand that meaning in ways I did not expect.

I wish I could mention everyone by name. Please know that I am thankful for each and every one of y'all.

This picture shows Mrs. Cook and my friends after my baptism

As I prepare for my move to Georgia, I am excited about the prospects of what lies ahead, but I know that leaving will not be easy. I came to Warren Wilson seeking an education, and somewhere along the way, I ended up with an entire collection of grandparents. I certainly have no complaints on my end. To my WWPC family, thank you for helping raise this Zimbabwean grandson of yours. Thank you for the prayers, the conversations, the invitations, and the many ways in which you have made me feel at home thousands of miles away from Zimbabwe.

Time indeed does fly, and looking back, I believe that I have made the most out of those moments during my time here at Warren Wilson. I have had my fair shares of adventures, some planned, and others

This is Munashe doing the PADI Open Water certification

I found myself in. From 52-Hour long Greyhound bus trips from Chicago to Los Angeles, many missed flights over the school breaks, weekly class service trips to Root Cause Farm, Bounty and Soul, and the Dr. John Wilson Community Garden, to navigating life in Philadelphia, PA and Providence, RI post Hurricane Helene. Then there was the time I received a stipend to go scuba diving, almost giving my mother a panic attack when I showed her the pictures after I got back. I would have never heard the end of it, if I had told her beforehand. I also think of the many hikes on campus, where I got to learn the names of just about every tree, or the time I decided to walk 26 miles along the Blue Ridge Parkway going South simply because I wanted to get as close as I can get to the Mt. Pisgah range to take a photo! Or of how I started college with an intense fear of bears, but found myself on the BearWise crew at some point - and even got to ward off a bear that was charging whilst on a walk in the Berea Compartment. I was lucky enough to have gotten pictures and a short video during my escape, and I am laughing as I recall the 7 minute long voice note from my mom after she saw the pictures.

I could go on, but what has become evident to me is that I will forever be stubborn, and will always find humor even in the worst of scenarios. It would be fair game to point out that these experiences have taught me a great deal about life, but so have the people who have been part of them. I get ready to leave with the knowledge that it is not always about what we do for others, what we do for ourselves, or what others do for us, but really about the small lessons that we get and choose to carry with us from these experiences.

This is not quite goodbye, as I still have a few months to go. But whenever the mountains call me back to Swannanoa, I hope there will still be a seat for me in the chapel, Ms. Betty waving from the chair next to the coffee hour area as I walk in, and perhaps some baked goods waiting after a good sermon.

Love Above All,
Munashe Matumbi

EDUCATION & FELLOWSHIP

Adult Education Class

Our Adult and Inter-generational Education Classes are going strong! The adults are studying "The Great Search" by John Philip Newell. Each class stands alone, so you can join the class whenever you like. Class starts at 9:15 AM until 10:15 AM.

Here are the topics for November:

Adult Classes

November 1 - Chapter 6 - Seeking Love: Jalaluddin Rumi

November 8 - Chapter 7 - Seeking Wisdom: Rabindranath Tagore

November 15 - Chapter 8 - Seeking Meaning: Etty Hilledum

November 22 - Chapter 9 and Conclusion - Seeking Faith: Edwin Muir

November 29 - Intergenerational Class - Based on the book, "Bear Says Thanks", by Karma Wilson and Jane Chapman. What better way for Bear to say thanks than over a nice big dinner? One by one, Bear's friends show up with different platters of food to share. There's just one problem - Bear's cupboards are bare! What is he to do? Please join us. Support our young people.

Adult Education Class book for Advent season

For the Advent season, the Adult Education class will be reading "Advent in Plain Sight: A Devotion through Ten Objects", by Jill J. Duffield. There is a reading for each day of Advent, Christmas, and Epiphany. Your first reading is for the first day of Advent, beginning November 29th. The first class in this series will be Sunday, December 6th, 9:15-10:15. More information will be coming. You might like to go ahead and order your book.

In this daily devotional for Advent, Christmas, and Epiphany, Jill J. Duffield draws readers' attention to ten ordinary objects that appear in the biblical narratives of messianic prophecy and incarnation - objects we encounter in our own lives. Through objects such as gates, trees, cloth, light, and water, readers will find new meaning in the biblical account of Jesus' coming. By connecting everyday objects with biblical texts, "Advent in Plain Sight" prompts readers to see the near kingdom of heaven on earth and ponder what divine proximity enables and asks them to do and be. Each daily devotional features a Scripture reading, prayer, and reflection, reminding Christians that God still dwells among us, even in the most ordinary places.

The Warren Wilson Book Group

Fall is a wonderful season to read some great books! We'd love to have you join us at the November 12 meeting of the Warren Wilson Book Group in Fellowship Hall. Bring your own lunch and get to know the group from 12-12:30. At 12:30 Chris will lead our discussion of Beyond That, The Sea by Laura Spence-Ash. Then in December we will be reading Heart the Lover by Lily King. All readers are welcome!

Togather

Jesus invites us to come to him and to come together to share our burdens and find rest. You are invited to join the Togather Group, meeting the 1st & 3rd Tuesday of each month at 1:30 in the church parlor for a time of sharing, contemplation, and prayer. Please contact Beth Meriwether for more information at bethmeriwether@gmail.com.

CHRISTMAS IS COMING

Poinsettias

This year we will start using silk poinsettias instead of real ones. They will save us money in the long run and give consistent, low-maintenance beauty for the Advent season. We have thirty-six that can be dedicated each year in honor or memory of your loved ones (you just can't take them home after the Christmas Eve service). Forms will be available in the narthex soon.

Our Next Steps

October 13, 2026

Dear members and friends of Warren Wilson Presbyterian Church,

For the last six months we have enjoyed the excitement and anticipation of a new beginning to the life and ministry of our congregation. We have heard Jessica's vision for what Warren Wilson can be and do, and we have shared with her our hopes and dreams for the next version of our community. We have also had the opportunity to continue our conversations informally as we hiked in the Fairview Community Forest, went together to a baseball game at the new Tourist park, and enjoyed a play at Flat Rock.

Now the time has come to move from anticipation to action as we plan for our Next Steps in creating the new future for Warren Wilson Presbyterian Church. The goal of our stewardship campaign this year is to identify the next steps we need to take individually and together to make our community all that we want it to be.

The challenge budget outlines the next steps to meet our congregation's financial needs for 2027. It projects commitments of $250,550, an increase of $7,800 (3.2%) from our 2026 budget. The increase reflects three basic commitments. First, it envisions cost of living raises for our church staff as well as increases to cover the rising costs for our existing programs. Second, it anticipates modest increases in our giving to others, both to the broader church of which we are a part and the particular ministry partners we support. Third, it anticipates hiring a part-time parish associate to help Jessica manage the work we plan to do together. Meeting the challenge will require each of us to decide the next steps we can take to support Warren Wilson in 2027. You can make your commitment on our website by scanning the QR code below or by visiting warrenwilsonchurch.org, or you may complete the commitment form included with this letter and place it in the offering plate or mail it to the church office (101 Chapel Lane, Swannanoa, NC 28778 Attn: Receiving Treasurer).

The stewardship campaign also offers each of us an opportunity to choose the next steps that we will take personally to support the ministry of Warren Wilson Presbyterian Church. Some of us may choose to strengthen our spiritual nurture program. Others may commit to working with the ministry partners we support in our community engagement budget or become involved in meeting needs of the college community. Still others may join the choir or hand bell players, assist in worship, or help with congregational gatherings. The opportunities abound; for Warren Wilson to become the church we want it to be, each of us needs to identify the next steps we are willing to take.

Our new beginning gives us reason to be hopeful for a bright future. For our congregation to take its next steps into the future, each of us has to take our individual next steps to make that future possible.

Yours in Christ,

The Stewardship Team
